

Advanced Call for Papers

Twentieth Annual BYU Religious Education Student Symposium

Friday, February 16, 2018

Wilkinson Student Center

Purpose of Conference:

To provide a forum for students to research, write, and present papers about religious subjects from a faithful perspective.

Eligibility:

All full-time BYU undergraduate and graduate students attending BYU-Provo Winter Semester 2018 on campus are invited to submit a paper.

Cash awards for winning papers:	1st Place:	$2,000.00
	2nd Place	$1,500.00
	3rd Place	$1,000.00
	Plus additional cash awards

Contest Guidelines:

Papers submitted for presentation at the Symposium must be original, faith promoting, and should not be simultaneously submitted to other conferences or journals. If accepted, each author should plan on fifteen minutes to present their paper. Papers may focus on a topic of religious significance, including but not limited to the following:

Scriptural topics	Religion and family life
Doctrinal topics	Family history
History of the Church	Teachings of living prophets
Ancient religious history	World religions

→ Submission Deadline: November 27, 2017 ←

Submit papers as a Word document via email to beverly_yellowhorse@byu.edu. Students will be notified of acceptance by mid-January 2018. Papers should be 10-12 pages in length (Chicago style) and include a title page with author's name, address, phone, e-mail, status in school and major. Additional details will be forthcoming Fall Semester 2017.

Questions? Please contact Beverly Yellowhorse at 801-422-3611