Religious Education at Brigham Young University offers grants from private endowment funds to a limited number of Latter-day Saint advanced Ph.D. students who are attending institutions of higher learning. These grants are to assist students in the completion of their doctoral studies.

Description

• A stipend for tuition, supplies, travel, books, and related expenses up to $10,000 (U.S.)

Eligibility

• Members in good standing of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints
• Enrolled in a full-time Ph.D. program
• Studying in disciplines related to the teaching and research missions of Religious Education at BYU
• Priority will be given to students engaged in dissertation research and writing; others in the final year of course work, especially with comprehensive exams scheduled, may be considered

Application

• Apply to: Associate Dean, Religious Education, 370D JSB, Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah 84602
• Preferably or before April 1 of each year for the following academic year; reviews are made quarterly
• Two letters of recommendation are required, including one from the student’s bishop and one from a faculty member under whom the student is pursuing doctoral work
• The two letters are to be sent directly to the BYU address above
BYU
Religious Education
Dissertation Grant

Applicant's full name (please print or type)

Street address     City     State     Postal Code

Phone number     Email address

University attending     Ph.D. program     Year in Ph.D. program (4th, 5th, etc.)

Areas of comprehensive exams     Date of comprehensive exams

Dissertation topic     Dissertation advisor

• Include a transcript of graduate course work thus far completed

• Include a brief prospectus of your dissertation, describing the nature of your topic, how you plan to approach it, and your qualifications to research and write the dissertation

• Include a statement of your professional goals

• Include a proposed itemized/budget of how the funds would be used